

FIRST PHASE SUCCESSFUL FOR FRENCH

GENERAL NIVELLE'S FORCES ADVANCE ALONG AILETTE RIVER AND CROZAT CANAL NEAR LEFFRE.

EXPECT NEW RETREAT

Hindenburg Will Probably Retire and Give Battle From Lille to Laon— Artillery Movement Test

The initial phase of the tremendous battle which has opened in northern France has apparently been in favor of the French, who are reported to have forced their way along the Ailette river and Crozat canal at several points. Along these waterways the Germans elected to make their first stand in defense of La Fere, at which point General Nivelle is rushing his advance troops in a desperate effort to break the Hindenburg line before the German advance is consolidated. The French are at-

Further south the rebels are attempting to batter their way toward Laon, but between them and their goal lie the great forests of Coucy and Gohain, and the comparatively meager advances reported from Paris indicate that the issue is still very much in doubt. Somewhat has been gained northeast of Soissons, but the fact that the French report having inflicted French refugees from the devastated wilderness over which the retreating Germans have passed, and their evidence to the accumulating proof that Field Marshal von Hindenburg's position is untenable.

pose is to give battle to the main body of the French on the line running from La Fere. This means that in the event of the French failing to break through at La Fere, a further withdrawal of the Germans is due to take place on the British front. The sharp salient running from Arras to Cambrai must be evacuated, and in support of this assumption, London reports explosion of a boundary mine in the district

The whole question at present appears to be whether the allies can move their heavy artillery fast enough so as to strike a smashing blow at the Germans, before the latter can effect

German Defense Line.
Paris, March 23.—The last batch repatriated French from the Somme region, who have arrived here, agree the Germans have established a defensive line running through Cambrai.

A violent attack was made by the Germans last night north of St. Simon in the region of Ham. Today's war office announcement says the Germans gained some ground at the beginning but were counter-attacked immediately and driven back as far as Seraucourt-le-Grand, three miles northeast of St. Simon.

The French continued to push north of Solissons, and a French detachment crossed the Ailette. The companies of French chasseurs who were isolated for a moment from the remainder of the troops, cut their way through and brought back prisoners.

SCHOOL DRILLS.

If drill, either military or semi-military, are beneficial to students above a certain age in schools in various cities of the country, why are they not beneficial to Janesville? The teaching of obedience to orders, how to walk correctly, how to stand erect, would certainly be a series of lessons that the majority of the high school pupils should learn to advantage.

The little attention is paid to the obedience command. It is a dead letter in many a home and indulgent parents are sparing the rod and spoiling the child in many a case simply through taking the easier way. School drills in handling the children, in school drill, would eliminate much of this trouble and teach the students that commands must be executed at once and prompt obedience is essential.

There is a certain element of calisthenics connected with the average drill—setting-up exercises. They are called—that would be good for both boys and girls, and while the boys of the school would benefit most materially, the girls would come in for their share as the red cross work and other adjuncts to the work that would keep them interested.

The United States is not intending to go to war, but there is a liability that such an occurrence might happen and if it does we must be prepared beforehand and not wait until months afterwards to get ready. The drill in the schools would be simply a preliminary training that would teach the boys and girls some of the necessities of war. It would be a waste of time, but it would instill in them an exactness and discipline that would be of great benefit to them in the future.

Orange day, Apple day, Lemon day, Raisin day, Peach day, etc., have all been celebrated, but it will take Spud day to arouse the American people this year to full enthusiasm.

Some of our senators have the ability to confer a wonderful benefit on the American people, and all they have to do to secure the profound gratitude of the American people is to resign.

The legislative question in which the American people are most interested at the present time is whether the battle shall be given any additional advantages in hitting the ball.

The politicians have joined the "Back to the Soil" movement until Congress meets again, consisting of building fences, cultivating the plum tree, and raising pork.

Lanterns in China.

There has long existed among the Chinese a passion for fireworks and lanterns. Travelers have called China the land of lanterns, and the term is appropriate. In every city, at every port and on every river and canal as soon as night comes on lanterns make their appearance. They are hung at the door of every dwelling; they swing as pendants from the angles of pagodas; they form the fiery crown of every shop front; they cluster round the houses of the poor and light up the hovels of the rich; they are borne with the carriages of travelers, and they swing from the masts and the masts of vessels.

Siam's Garden Land.

Much of the garden land in lower Siam is made by digging trenches to raise the ground, so that half is trench and half ridge, and only rice can be grown in the trenches. Thus practically only one-half of the garden land gives any return, yet the price of such land in the best localities is $100 to $250 an acre.

ish minister, which has for so long afforded comfort to people who love big figures without much conception of what they mean. The Jesuit Fathers, with a more intimate knowledge of China than Macartney ever had, placed the Chinese population at 135,000,000.

Perhaps under progressive Japanese leadership, China will indulge in a census; and if we are to base our calculations of her prospective demands for railroad material and other commodities on population, it might be commensurate with the figures even pay us to count piglets ourselves. The present population statistics are absurd, and none of our authorities on the Far East seem to have any clear idea of population centers, where they are situated, how far they extend, their density, and what desolate and unprofitable territory is to be crossed by railroads attempting to link them together.

SHALL WE ALL FLY?

A news dispatch from St. Petersburg, Fla., reports that a Paterburg, Fla., woman, aged sixty-seven, has just gone up in a dirigible. The woman, who is a widow, is the first of the winter aeroplans. The news comes that many of the women guests are going up with aviators almost daily. Is the time drawing near when we shall look on an air trip as no more of an event than a ride in an automobile?

For some of our cautious people, that day is some distance off. If you are rolling along in your automobile at twenty miles an hour and the motor breaks down, you merely have a disagreeable hour, while someone runs to the nearest telephone and gets the nearest garage. The same thing happens in your aeroplans, you are quite safe if you merely get to the hospital instead of the cemetery.

No motor that man can ever invent will be perfectly secure against stopping in mid-air. Then it comes down to the question whether a machine that can be so equipped and handled that it can descend safely on a still engine. One admires the courage of our friend of sixty-seven who enjoyed that quarter of a mile trip, but many of us would rather saw wood.

If you agree with the newspapers, they are the intelligent American people press voicing the opinions of the people; if you don't agree with them, they are the hired press, bought with somebody's gold ("gold" is the correct term in that convention, never any other kind of money).

Orange day, Apple day, Lemon day, Raisin day, Peach day, etc., have all been celebrated, but it will take Spud day to arouse the American people this year to full enthusiasm.

WAYS OF REDUCING YOUNG PIG LOSSES TOLD TO FARMERS

(By Allen B. West.)
About three hundred people were in attendance at the farmers' course and women's home conference on Tuesday and day of the session at Milton Tuesday, March 20. J. C. Fuller of the University, opened the program in the gymnasium by discussing "Down Losses of Young Pigs." In brief Mr. Fuller's talk was as follows:

1. Producing pork as in other farm operations, one should have a program and follow a definite plan. He should know whether he wants to market his pigs early or late, whether he will have one of two broods during the year, and what feeds he will raise for his pigs and so on. In raising pigs, there are four important periods.
2. Breeding and nursing period.
3. Farrowing and nursing period.
4. Growing and fattening period.

The best animals obtainable should be used for breeding and nursing. The pregnant sow should be given the best care possible. The piglets should be given the best care possible. The food should contain variety, consisting of a mixture of grains.

Two different rations were given as follows:

|---|---------|
| Ground corn | 30 lbs. |
| Barley | 30 lbs. |
| Oats | 30 lbs. |
| Chaff from barn floor | 25 lbs. |
| Tankage | 4 lbs. |
| Simple ration | — |
| Corn—60 lbs., or 60 percent of mixture. | — |
| Barley—60 lbs., or 60 percent of mixture. | — |
| Tankage—10 percent. | — |

With this ration alfalfa may be substituted for the corn, especially the alfalfa that is often wasted. The sows may be given all they will eat of this alfalfa and the tankage may be given in the form of a mash. If one has skim milk he may feed that at the rate of five pounds per day in place of the tankage.

The tankage or skim milk is a very important part of the feed, furnishing something that the animal craves, and prevents or minimizes the tendency of the sows to eat their young. The loss from this cause (the eating of the pigs by the mother) is apt to be the largest of any other loss. It has been found that the sows will not eat their young in winter, in which the sows have not been able to get out and root in the ground.

The addition of roots to either of these rations at the rate of three pounds a day, is to be recommended. The loss of pigs that come early, the losses are classified as follows:

- Weak pigs and runts.
- Laid on by sows.
- Poor nutrition.
- Killed by cruel sows.
- Sickness (thumps).

Some of these losses are due to improper care of the sows and some, such as the lying on pigs, seem unavoidable in early pigs. Some mouths are especially vicious. Some mouths are especially vicious. Some mouths are especially vicious.

Castration, which is an operation performed for the purpose of making a pig a market animal, is often the cause of loss. It is often the cause of loss. It is often the cause of loss.

Experimentation with different lots of pigs has shown that pigs that have had alfalfa for forage crop made the highest gain for the cost of the feed. The value of skimmed milk for pigs is also great.

In the afternoon F. W. White discussed "The Tractor on the Farm." Mr. White believed that there is a mission for the tractor on the Wisconsin farm, but farmers should use great care in buying to select the one best adapted to their work.

Mr. Fuller spoke again on "Opportunities in Draft Horse Production in Wisconsin." His talk was followed by a judging contest with horses furnished by Alf Austin and T. A. Saunders.

In the college chapel in the forenoon Mrs. W. W. Wines of Milwaukee, gave a talk to over one hundred girls from the schools. In the afternoon she spoke to the women of the topic "Three Men's Lives for Three Hundred and Sixty-Five Days a Year—How To Do It Rightly." The secret of doing it right, she said, was in having an efficient, well planned kitchen and systematic way of work. She also emphasized the importance of the right kind of food and explained the uses of the different classes of foods.

Women were followed by Miss Boring on "Plain Sewing," showing how a woman may adapt to her wardrobe a small coat, things that to buy ready-made prove very expensive.

The evening session in the gymnasium was addressed by Dr. Dorothy Reed Merriam of Madison, who spoke on the "Health Need of the Community." The music for the evening was furnished by the Girls' Glee club of the Milton Junction High school.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

There is no anaesthetic more potent than the pancake. After eating a stack of pancakes, a person is indifferent to almost anything.

"We are a nation of pancake eaters," said a noted preparedness advocate in a recent lecture. In what more vitriolic terms could he have characterized our national inertia, if we have any?

Nonsense. The pancake is not taken in the arm, hypodermic, nor is it inhaled like ether, but it is a drug with a shape and a "kick" all its own. It is in disc form, about the size and thickness of a graphophone record. The patient or pancake-ee may administer the dose, himself—although he should be watched and dragged off before he becomes completely suffocated. The process is more pleasant if the pancake is laced in maple or imitation maple molasses. As the patient eats the pancakes, he develops a frenzy and will eat himself to death unless a whistle is blown or the supply is arbitrarily shut off. In ten minutes, the patient will begin to yawn, in a half hour he will be completely bored with life, and in forty minutes he will fall into a stupor and you may sell him life insurance, take his pocketbook, or get his name in a swamp. A man under the influence of pancakes will resist nothing. He has no interest in life except his sweet dreams.

HONORED AT MEETING OF ROYAL NEIGHBORS

Mrs. H. D. Murdock Elected Delegate to Supreme Council—Mrs. Childs Again Chosen State Oracle.

The meeting of the Royal Neighbors held on last Tuesday and Wednesday at the Casino and Neenah is of special interest to the local camps and to those of many of the neighboring cities and towns, many of whom are delegates. One of the interesting features of their exercises, was the initiation of a class of 250 new members. This is an almost unprecedented number to be taken in at one time, and is the direct result of Footville, who has been doing the work of recruiting new members.

There are two delegates allowed from this district, for the supreme camp, which is to meet in Buffalo on May 20, and Rock county was fortunate in having in the election of delegates, the election of one Mrs. H. D. Murdock. The other is a lady from Waubesa. Wisconsin will send a delegation of nineteen members to this supreme camp, which meets in May, and a special car will be chartered for the event.

One feature of the state meeting was the evident loyalty and support given by members in the state for Mrs. F. C. Childs of Hanover. She was unanimously re-elected state oracle, an office which she has held for nine years, and at this time there was no other candidate for the position. The convention also endorsed Mrs. Childs for the office of supreme manager, which position she has held with due dignity and honor. Several beautiful gifts were given to Mrs. Childs by different officials and the Twin City camps, with whom she came into personal relation during this convention.

"What's that man who was always talking about making a fortune raising chickens?"

"He has quit bothering about chickens. He puts the eggs in cold storage."

Faces As Fair As A Summer's Day
Are Possible if Stuart's Calcium Wafers Are Used for a Short Time After Each Meal.

Many people have been heard to say that they used creams and lotions for years without effect, yet after five or six days of Stuart's Calcium Wafers their complexions were perfectly clear.

No matter how bad your skin may be, Stuart's Calcium Wafers will quickly work wonders with it. It's good for blackheads, pimples, acne, boils, rash, eczema and a dirty, "filthy" complexion. You can get a box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store at 50 cents a box, and you will be positively delighted with their wonderful effect.

We Cordially Invited All Men and Young Men To Our Present Exposition of New Spring Clothing, Hats, Shoes and Haberdashery.

$15, $17, $18.50 and $21.50

To All Men Who Are Going To Have New Clothes This Spring We Have This to Say:

This store has been selling clothing, shoes and furnishings to the men and young men of Janesville and vicinity for a number of years and every day of every year of that time it had to be a better store than it was the day before. There never was any chance or luck about it. Every day, more goods and better goods; larger service and more intelligent service.

This season we know more than we have known in the past, and we have larger stocks and better stocks and better preparations for service. All of which encourages us to ask you to come and see our Spring preparations. You all have clothes to buy this spring. We have the pattern and style you want at the prices you want to pay.

An Entire Floor Of New Spring Footwear For Women, Men and Children

Every pair made the Rehberg way, which insures satisfaction to every customer. We present for your inspection the best productions of the foremost shoemakers of the country. In addition you will find salesmen who are courteous and obliging and are anxious to fit shoes to your entire satisfaction.

Service--Measured by Quality as Well as Price Standards.

QUALITY determines the status of price—price alone doesn't mean much. You get here merchandise of established excellence at the lowest possible prices; you get a guarantee that protects you absolutely.

Study the QUALITY of our merchandise and the reasonableness of our prices and you'll begin to realize why it'll pay you so well to make this store your regular trading place.

DOES JANESVILLE WANT A BALL TEAM IN STATE LEAGUE?

City Must Come to Support of Team Now By Buying Shares of Stock.

—Decide By Tuesday.

Does Janesville want to be represented in the Wisconsin Central league? Does the city want a team which will put up a good game of ball, which will insure Sunday ball in this city throughout the season? If Janesville wants these things, the lovers of the game and the people who are anxious to see the citizens provided with a wholesome form of amusement for their Sunday leisure, must respond at once.

The team as it is being organized here will be under the control of a stock company, formed by all who will place the same by buying a share of the stock now being sold by William Langdon and by the secretary of the Commercial club at the office of that organization. To insure the financial possibility of the team, $12,000 must be raised before next Tuesday night. To secure this money, shares of stock are being sold for $10 a share. To all stockholders a profit will be made, the season will be divided pro rata and returned to them. It is in no way a money making proposition, but is entirely a civic venture to give Janesville a good, clean brand of summer ball.

One of the points which the league officials insist upon is that the control of the team shall be in the hands of one man or might be in it for purely financial gain. Consequently all stockholders will be equal owners of the team; its management will be in the hands of a committee of businessmen elected by the stockholders.

Subscription lists are now being circulated by Mr. Langdon and Mr. Kuhn, but the backers of the movement appeal to the people to voluntarily come forward to buy stock, in that it will be impossible for the solicitors to reach everyone in the short time at their disposal. On next Tuesday evening, representatives of the various teams in the league meet to perfect the final details of schedule and arrangement, and that time they must know definitely whether Janesville will put a team in the league.

To date forty-five shares, bringing in a total of $450 and a balance of $1,200 will be necessary before the men who are backing the movement here feel they can be justified in going to the league that this city will be represented. If Janesville is to have a team, it will be a team belonging to the city and representative of the city, and its existence depends upon the support given now by the citizens.

ROCK VOTERS FILE LICENSE PETITIONS

Both Wet and Dry Voters of Town of Rock Submit Petitions for Vote on Saloons.

Petitions from the town of Rock, both of the wet and dry voters, were filed with County Clerk Lee yesterday, asking that the question of license or no license be submitted to the voters of that township at the April election. As both South Janesville and Afton are in this township, the fight will be watched with great interest by Janesville people.

The question of saloons being allowed in these places, especially in South Janesville, has been a sore point with the leaders of the dry campaign in that township because of their proximity to this city.

OBITUARY.

In the passing away of John J. Schindler, as he was nearing his eightieth birthday, his parents suffered the loss of a dutiful and endearing son, and his brothers and sisters a cheerful and loving brother. His life was a life of many friends who manifested their friendship by sending beautiful flowers in the form of crosses, wreaths, pillows, baskets, sprays, etc., and showed him respect by attending his funeral.

Rev. Father Mahoney read the funeral mass and preached the sermon. His explanations and words of advice could not be otherwise than conducive of good, as he made a word picture of the duties of parents to children and children to parents, in his words the bereaved parents, brothers and sisters must have received comfort and consolation in this, their hour of sorrow.

The Trouble.

"What do you think of this wonderful work of art?" she asked as she proudly led him to where was hanging in state the impressionist landscape she had purchased.

"I think," he replied after careful investigation, "that the man who did it must have painter's colic"—Baltimore American.

CHARITY.

How difficult it is to be wisely charitable! To give alms is nothing unless you give thought also. A little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money.

JANESVILLE MEETS MADISON TONIGHT

Local High School Closes Basketball Season With Game With Madison High This Evening.

Janesville high school's basketball team went to Madison this afternoon for the last game of the season. Throughout the last week the squad has gone through the hardest work-outs of the season, for he game they put up against the championship Edgerton team encouraged them to make a final spurt for a victory over their old rivals at Madison.

Though Janesville suffered a defeat at the hands of the strong team, and despite the fact that Madison High has a team which compares most favorably with Edgerton, the local boys mean to give the Capital City team one of the hardest brushes of the season. Coach Kock will take with him Cushing, Cassidy, Kenning, Kober, Davy and Fein.

The game ends the interscholastic season for the local team, a season which though not successful from the point of victories, has shown the high school team to be plucky fighters. The team is an unusually light one, and they have thus been handicapped at the start, but in every game they have put up a good fight, and have established a reputation for themselves as a clean team. The team has accepted its reverses without losing spirit, and throughout the season the practices have been regular and fast. The school has backed the team in a most loyal manner. The sale of season tickets was large and the attendance at all games has been good.

Officials at the school and members of the church league are now arranging a game between a picked all-star team from that league and the high school team, to decide the championship of the city and to close the basketball season in Janesville with a fast game of home boys.

A SUMMER FROCK

Green embroidery on a white satin background is the scheme of this summer frock. The straight lines with the plaited sides give the narrowing silhouette and strikes a new fashion note. The collar and cuffs of green satin are different and stylish.

THE MASKED BALL.

Many were the guests and hugely were they enjoying themselves dancing, eating, playing tag and puss-in-the-corner, and such things at the annual ball given by the United Safety Raisers of America, Consolidated. Flashes of course, were strewn and strung all over the big lavender room of the Broadcloth Hotel. In and about, flitted Sheerluck Bones, the great detective who was called in to guard the princely jewels worn by the lady and the queenly pearls adorning the shirts of some of the older gentlemen. While the guests was at its height, a cry of dismay pierced the smoke-laden air. Count Fareschi had missed his enormous $100,000 pearl stud. Immediately, Sheerluck Bones was on the spot. Placing his spoof glass diametrically opposite the bottom of the Count's shirt he examined it carefully. He ordered all the ladies in the room to stand in a line, and then walked rapidly up and down the line, down and up and back again. Stopping before Mrs. Howmuchsky, he laid his hand upon her shoulder and exclaimed, "This lady has the pearl!" "How did you know?" "Wonderful!" "Marvelous!" etc., etc., were only a few of the exclamations going around. "An easy matter," replied the detective to the numerous inquiries. "You see just above the spot where Count Fareschi sticks his stud is a small black mark. And right on the end of Madame Howmuchsky's nose is a small white mark. Well, that's where her black make-up rubbed off on Count Fareschi's shirt, so I deduced that she had bitten off the pearl. I suppose, she danced a two-step together. (Enough.)

JOAN, METROPOLITAN OPERA TENOR, REFUSES CALL TO KAISER'S OPERA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, March 23.—Karl Edward Heinrich Jörn, German tenor of the Metropolitan opera here, will not respond to Kaiser Wilhelm's personal request that he return to Berlin and join the Royal opera here. Instead he will go before the United States court here next week and ask his final court here next week and ask his final American citizenship papers, he said today.

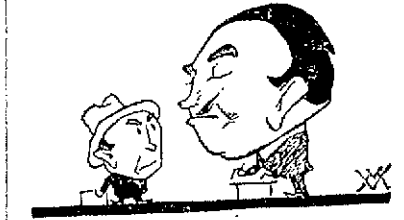

"It is true," said Jörn, "that I have received a call from the Royal opera, but I shall not respond to it. I am an American at heart and I want to be one in fact. I have my first and second papers and hope to get my final citizenship papers next week. Jörn's wife and children are still in Berlin.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOUTON

YOU KNOW WHAT.
Of course, when winter howls and tails, When days are frigidly and dreary, When you must brave the stormy seas, When then, of course, it's very easy To see we need 'em heavy, so we go and buy 'em by the bevy. For when the weather's cold, you know, We like 'em heavy.
But when the balm of Spring arrives, When flowers bud and chores are a-riking, When we buy bouquets for our wives And yawn and curse the need of 'em, Why then, as you'll agree, why then We like 'em lighter.
Spring's warmth brings languor, yawns and sighs, It brings a happiness and joyance, And what on colder days we annoy. On warmer days are an annoy. Last season's from the trunk we haul, And on the clothes-line we arrange 'em.
Ho, ho, joy we cry, it's a Most time to change 'em!

Hotel Clerks.
Hotel clerks are young men govted in the hotel clerk of ordinary talent can make a grammar. A hotel clerk might be born and raised in Council Bluffs—to the regret of its Chamber of Commerce—but a hotel clerk without a New York accent would be more amazing than a Saturday night without a bath. MYERS THEATRE.

"The Garden of Allah."
That superb dramatic production taken from Robert Hichens' famous novel of the same name, "The Garden of Allah," will be the attraction at the Myers Theatre for a limited engagement of matinee and night, Saturday, March 24. The play was dramatized by Mr. Hichens himself, assisted by Mary Anderson de Navarro. A wonderfully great cast has been selected to portray the distinctive characters of this absorbing and thrilling story. Nothing could be more finely and fastidiously feminine than the "Domini Enfielden" portrayed by Sarah Truax. In every scene her acting is exquisitely sincere and true—and in the big moments really great—for it is the rich and gracious femininity of the impersonation that gives one of the greatest charms to the drama. The character of "Boris," the young monk, in appearance and carriage. His portrayal of the dreamer, capable of any act of self-delusion or reckless excess, and his acting in the heavier scenes, wins him round after round of applause. Howard Gould gives distinction to the part of "Count Antonin," and in the great scene between him and the monk, in which he tells the monk that his identity is known and forces him to tell his bride the truth, both give magnificent portrayals. Albert Andrass smiles of benevolence fits well under the shovel hat of the French priest and James Mason is an excellent French captain. Native Arabs in the large number of minor characters, not only add to the picturesque quality of the various scenes, but they also act with the facile and fiery grace of their kind. News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

Mary Garden sailed from New York for Spain, on the Spanish liner Alfonso XII. Despite every warning of the dangers attending sea travel at this time, Mary Garden would not alter her itinerary. Her trip is made chiefly for the purpose of selecting gowns for her forthcoming picture debut. In addition to her citizenship rights and papers, Miss Garden is carrying with her from New York daily. Her appointment is in no way honorary, for Miss Garden intends to work as a journalist and file news dispatches regularly.

CAN'T STOP SCHOOL TO PLAY IN MOVIES.

Miss Susie May Squiggs, little tale, who was Mary Pickford's op-tale, in a notable fight in "A Poor Little Rich Girl," is having her troubles with the New York juvenile court. In private life Miss Squiggs is Maxine Elliott Hicks and New York lives with her mother in New York. The board of education, seeing that for some time she had not been going to school, halted her before the magistrate. Though her mother claimed that Maxine's absence for twenty-nine days from the halls of the school had been due to her work, learning had been getting $75 a week, her explanation fell on barren soil. It was only when she promised to engage a tutor that the case was continued until March 30.

Margaret Loomis is the most recent notable accession to the screen. She is the daughter of C. Loomis. She is a Los Angeles hotel. Miss Loomis is a student of different countries, the customs of different countries, having toured them all, and has dramatic talent that fits her for the stage or screen. She is a Ruth St. Dennis' company for two seasons. She makes her screen debut opposite Sessue Hayakawa in a just-completed feature, which will have an early release. In a coming production planned for Harold Lockwood and May Allison they will be called upon to take

"DADDY LONG LEGS" A DAINTY COMEDY

Jean Webster's Famous Play Brilliant, Pathetic and Humorous—Well Received at Myers Last Evening.
"Daddy Long Legs," which played at Myers Theatre last evening, has been described by many reviewers as "a comedy that breathes the spirit of youth." It is a tender love story built around a quaint Cinderella in real life; a girl whose fancy creates a world of beauty and tenderness and young heroines, begins life as a foundling child, is lightened by vivid day dreams in which she fancies herself a student in a girls' college, with plenty of pretty frocks to wear, happy companions of her own age, money to blessings that fall to the fortunate girls who live in the unknown world beyond the walls of her dreary home. The reckless generosity of a modern Prince Charming. Naturally the subsequent romance between her and her mysterious benefactor provides the scenes of sentiment which give the play its charm.

Fadma was kidnapped at the age of fourteen years by an emissary of the despotic sultan of Morocco, Mulai Hassan, and taken to Fez, the capital of the empire, where she was sold into slavery. The under-lying efforts of a young French doctor, The family from which Mr. Scisu comes, are established in Morocco, engaged in the land and cattle business, and some of the Arabs with the "Garden of Allah" company have been in years past employed by the Scisus as farmers and cattle raisers and knew Mr. Scisu as a child.

U. W. DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE HANDLES SIX CASES IN MONTH

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 23.—During the first month of this semester six cases of dishonesty have been dealt with by the discipline committee of the University of Wisconsin. Various penalties have been imposed, ranging from three hours of extra work with probation to indefinite suspension from school. Three of the offenses were committed in the commerce English history course. The other acts were committed in the chemistry and journalism courses.

RACE IN AMERICA SHOULD BE RIGHT

This season's journey down the American league schedule should be as productive of sensations as fully as last year's grueling finish. No less than four clubs are due to be in the fight and the balance is such that the issue probably will not be decided until the season is in its closing month. Detroit looks to be one team which will bear watching. The Chicago Red Sox from making an awful bid for the Ban Johnson bunting pennant for several seasons. Just one thing has hampered them. Correcting the faults in the Detroit pitching staff and there will be a baseball club that will tear its way through anything. Imagine a team making six and seven runs a day, only to see the opposition come through with just a few more. The offensive power of such a grand machine is lost in the inability of pitchers to hold the opposition to a few runs. With two good pitchers Detroit should win a pennant for its stockholders are able to produce the runs. The same thing might be said to hold good for the White Sox, but there are good pitchers there. The fault isn't wholly with the hurlers. The batters are there to make the runs, and for a great part of the time, the pitchers are there to do the holding. Comiskey's twirlers are themselves, but there is no reason why they should not return. The White Sox need a first baseman and they need him hard. If Gaillard can come through the White Sox will develop a dangerously well balanced team.

The Yankees are dangerous, but hardly enough to be voted a spring pennant. They need more experience as a team, and a trifle more steadiness in the pitching staff.

The Red Sox will supply the enigma for the season. The champions comprise one of the best balanced and best defensive teams thrown together for many years. If the crack doesn't come this year it will be hard to keep them out of another world's championship. A great deal depends on Jack Barry's ability, but the team is so constituted that if it holds together, most any one could drive it to a flag.

SON OF LEO TOLSTOI ON VAUDEVILLE STAGE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
San Francisco, March 23.—Count Liya Tolstoy, son of the late Leo Tolstoy, is scheduled to begin a tour in vaudeville here day after tomorrow. If he is more successful in this than he was in his attempt to make a speech at Columbia University, he will receive $1,000 a week for forty weeks on the circuit. He will have a tryout of one week to see how he "takes" with the vaudeville patrons. The row the Count had with Dr. Butler of Columbia over his socialistic arguments, which resulted in his being forbidden to appear at Columbia is what got him the vaudeville engagement.

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Could Do No Work.
Now Strong as a Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. O. BRYAN, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

HEART OF THE SUNSET

By REX BEACH

Author of "The Spoilers," "The Iron Trail," "The Silver Horde," Etc.

Copyright by Harper & Brothers

"Be still!" Dave commanded, thickly. But the fellow's hatred was out of bounds now, and by the bitterness of his vituperation he seemed to invite death. Dave interrupted his vitriolic curses to ask harshly:

"Will you tell me, or will you force me to wring the truth out of you?" Jose answered by spitting at his captor; then he grunted an unspoken epithet from between his teeth.

Dave addressed him with an air of finality. "You killed that man and your life is forfeit, so it doesn't make much difference whether I take it or whether the state takes it. You are brave enough to die—most of you Mexicans are—but the state can't force you to speak, and I can." Jose sneered. "Oh yes, I can! I intend to know all that you know, and it will be better for you to tell me voluntarily. I must learn where Senora Austin is, and I must learn quickly, if I have to kill you by inches to get the truth."

"So! Torture, eh? Good. I can believe it of you. Well, a slow fire will not make me speak."

"No. A fire would be too easy, Jose."

"En?" Without answer Dave strode out of the room. He was back before his prisoner could do more than wince at his words, and with him he brought his lariat and his canteen.

"What are you going to do?" Jose inquired, backing away until he was once more at bay.

"I'm going to give you a drink."

"Whisky? You think you can make me drunk?" The horse-breaker laughed loudly but uneasily.

"Not whisky; water. I'm going to give you a drink of water."

"What capers?"

"When you've drunk enough you'll tell me why you killed your employer and where General Longorio has taken his wife. Yes, and everything else I want to know."

Seizing the amazed Mexican, Dave flung him upon Morales' hard board bench, and in spite of the fellow's struggles deftly made him fast. When he had finished—and it was no easy job—Jose lay "spread-eagled" firmly bound to the corners and foot posts, his body secured by a tight foot post over his waist. The rope cut painfully and brought a curse from the prisoner when he strained at it. Law surveyed him with a face of stone.

"I don't want to do this," he declared. "But I know your kind. I give you one more chance. Will you tell me?"

Jose drew his lips back in a snarl of rage and pain, and Dave realized that further words were useless. He felt a certain pity for his victim, but such feelings were of small consequence as against his agonizing fears for Alaire's safety. Had he in the least doubted Jose's guilty knowledge or Longorio's intentions, Dave would have hesitated before employing the barbarous measures he had in mind, but there was nothing else for it. He pulled the canteen cork and jammed the mouthpiece firmly to Jose's lips. Closing the fellow's nostrils with his free hand, he forced him to drink.

Jose clenched his teeth, he tried to roll his head, he held his breath until his face grew purple and his eyes bulged. He strained like a man upon the rack. The bench creaked to his muscular contortions; the rope tightened. It was terribly cruel, this crushing of a strong will bent on resistance to the uttermost; but never was an executioner more pitiless, never did a prisoner's agony receive less consideration. The warm water spilled over Jose's face, it drenched his neck and chest; his joints creaked as he strove for freedom and tried to twist his head out of Law's iron grasp. The seconds dragged, until finally nature asserted herself. The imprisoned breath burst forth; there sounded a loud gurgling cry, and a choking inhalation. Jose's body writhed with the convulsions of drowning as the water and air were sucked into his lungs. Law was kneeling over his victim now, his weight and strength so applied that Jose had no liberty of action and could only drink, coughing and fighting for air. Somehow he managed to revive himself briefly and again shut his teeth; but a moment more and he was again roiled with the furious battle for air, more desperate now than before. After a while Law freed his victim's nostrils and allowed him a partial breath, then once more crushed the mouthpiece against his lips. By and by, to relieve his torture, Jose began to drink in great noisy gulps, striving to empty the vessel.

But the stomach's capacity is limited. In time Jose felt himself bursting; the liquid began to regurgitate. This was not mere pain that he suffered, but the ultimate nightmare horror of death more awful than anything he had ever imagined. Jose would have met a bullet, a knife, a lash, without flinching; flames would not have served to weaken his resolve; but this slow drowning was infinitely worse than the worst he had thought possible; he was suffocating by long, black, agonizing minutes. Every nerve and muscle of his body, every cell in his burning lungs, fought against the outrage in a purely physical frenzy over which his will power had no control. Nor would insensibility come to his relief—Law watched him too carefully for that. He could not even voice his sufferings by shrieks; he could only writhe and retch and gurgle while the ropes bit into his flesh and his captor knelt upon him like a monstrous stone weight.

But Jose had made a better fight than he knew. The canteen ran dry at last, and Law was forced to release his hold.

"Will you speak?" he demanded.

Thinking that he had come safely through the ordeal, Jose shook his head; he rolled his bulging, bloodshot eyes and vomited, then managed to call God to witness his innocence.

Dave went into the next room and refilled the canteen. When he reappeared with the dripping vessel in his hand, Jose tried to scream. But his throat was torn and strained; the sound of his own voice frightened him.

Once more the torment began. The tortured man was weaker now, and in consequence he resisted more feebly; but not until he was less than half-conscious did Law spare him to recover.

Jose lay sick, frightened, inert. Dave watched him without pity. The fellow's wrists were black and swollen, his lips were bleeding; he was stretched like a dumb animal upon the vice-grip's table, and no surgeon with lance and scalpel could have shown less emotion than did his inquisitor. Having no intention of de-feeling his own ends, Dave allowed his victim ample time in which to regain his ability to suffer.

Slowly, in Sighs and Whimpers, Cries of Reluctance, His Story Came.

Alaire Austin had been right when she said that Dave might be ruthless; and yet the man was by no means incapable of compassion. At the present moment, however, he considered himself simply as the instrument by which Alaire was to be saved. His own feelings had nothing to do with the matter; neither had the sufferings of this Mexican. Therefore he steeled himself to prolong the agony until the murderer's stubborn spirit was worn down.

Once again he put this question, and again receiving defiance, jammed the canteen between Jose's teeth.

But human nature is weak. For the first time in his life Jose Sanchez felt terror—a terror too awful to be endured—and he made the sign.

He was no longer the insolent defier, the challenger, but an imploring wretch, whose last powers of resistance had been completely shattered. His frightened eyes were glued to the devilish vessel in which his manhood had dissolved, the fear of it made a woman of him.

Slowly, in sighs and whimpers, in agonies of reluctance, his story came; his words were rendered almost incomprehensible by his abysmal fright. When he had purged himself of his secret Dave promptly unbound him; then leaving him more than half dead, he went to the telephone which connected the pumping station with Las Palmas and called up the ranch.

He was surprised when Blaze Jones answered. Blaze, it seemed, had just arrived, summoned by news of the tragedy. The countryside had been alarmed and a search for Ed Austin's slayer was being organized.

"Call it off," Dave told him. "I've got your man." Blaze stuttered his surprise and incredulity. "I mean it. It's Jose Sanchez, and he has confessed. I want you to come here, quick; and come alone, if you don't mind. I need your help."

Inside of ten minutes Jones piloted his automobile into the clearing beside the river, and, leaving his motor running, leaped from the car.

Dave met him at the door of the Morales house and briefly told him the story of Jose's capture.

"Say! That's quick work," the rancher cried, admiringly. "Why, Ed ain't cold yet! You gave him the 'water-cure,' eh? Now I reckoned it would take more than water to make a Mexican talk."

"Jose was hired for the work; he laid for Ed Austin in the pecan grove and shot him as he passed."

"Hired! Why this hombre needs quick hangin', don't he? I told 'em at Las Palmas that you'd rounded up the guilty party, so I reckon they'll be here in a few minutes. We'll just stretch this horse-wrangler, and save the county some expense." Law shrugged. "Do what you like with him, but—it isn't necessary. He'll confess in regulation form, I'm sure. I had to work fast to learn what became of Mrs. Austin."

"Miz Austin? What's happened to her?"

Red Blood and Courage!

(By Dr. W. C. Lucas.)

What drives the men right up to the trenches in this war is courage, and it's red blood that "puts the heart" in the men. Did any one ever see a puny, thin-blooded man ever rush into the fight with any chance of winning out? With rich, pure blood you can face any hardship, reach any goal. But you are handicapped in the race of life without it. Every tissue, bone, muscle, should take from the blood certain materials and return to the blood perfect health. When the poisons accumulate in the blood, perhaps the face breaks out in pimples, or boils appear on the neck, and we feel languid, tired, our vitality is at a low ebb, and we easily catch cold.

It's time to take an alternative extract and blood purifier taken from Nature's forests. Such a one is made up of Golden Seal, Blood and Stone root, Oregon Grape and Queen's root—extracted with glycerine, and made into sugar-coated tablets or liquid, and this has been sold by druggists for the past fifty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's always efficacious in the spring when the blood is run down and you need a wholesome tonic. Try this old-fashioned but reliable remedy, without alcohol!

If you are occasionally troubled with rheumatic pains or lumbago, pain in the back, toes or muscles of the body, this is due to uric acid stored in the system. The liver and kidneys do not act properly. For such a person, I advise taking Anuric (double strength) three times daily for a week or two. This Anuric throws out the uric acid which accumulates, and it taken occasionally will prevent or cure rheumatism and gout. There is no difficulty in obtaining Anuric at any drug store.—Advertisement.

Weak, Nervous Ohio Woman

Made Well by Delicious Vinol.

Bellefontaine, Ohio.—"My blood was very poor—I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition. I tried different remedies without benefit and one day my druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and it built me up in every way—blood, strength and nerves, and I tell my friends it is the best medicine on earth."—Mrs. Earl Brunson.

Alkali in Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and runs it.

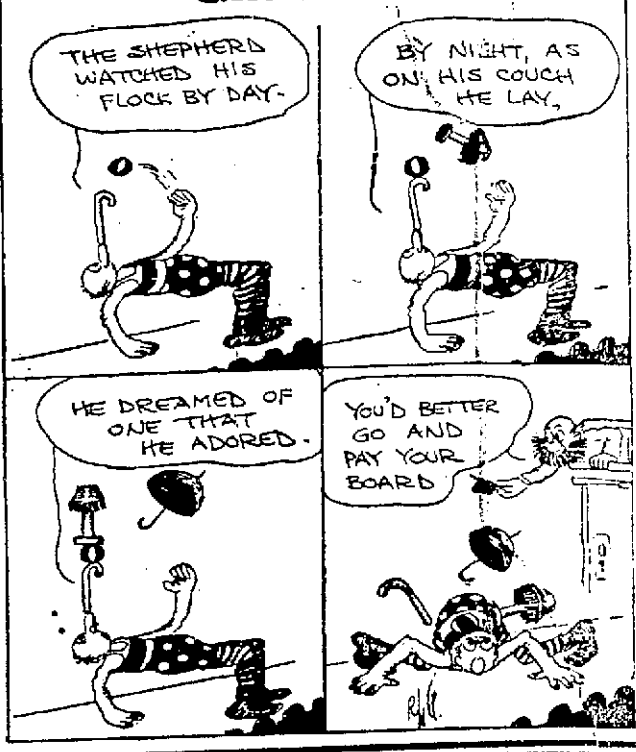

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonsful will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly; and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

A young man who was not particularly entertaining was monopolizing the attention of a pretty debutante with a lot of uninteresting conversation.

GULLICKSON OF CAMERON

NOMINATED FOR ASSEMBLY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 23.—Andrew Gullickson of Cameron, a former member of the assembly, has been nominated at the primaries held in Barron county district this week. The election will be held on April 3.

At the primaries just held, James R. Beckwith, a member of the legislature in 1915, and Andrew Gullickson, a member of the legislature in 1911 and 1913, were republican candidates. Gullickson received 303 votes and Beckwith 221 votes. Another republican candidate received 81 votes. This gives the nomination to Gullickson, who is a La Follette progressive.

B. A. Bogges of Cameron, received 443 votes on the democratic ticket and will be Mr. Gullickson's opponent in the April 3 election.

This election is necessitated because of the death of Assemblyman L. Evans of Rice Lake, who died about a month ago. The new member of the assembly will probably take his seat about April 10.

Freckle Face

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

Do you know how easy it is to remove those ugly spots so that no one will call you freckle-faced? Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from your druggist, and a few applications should show you how easy it is to get rid of freckles and get a beautiful complexion. The sun and winds of March have a strong tendency to bring out freckles, and as a result more othine is sold in this month. Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.—Advertisement.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—if You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must keep your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes without no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you no ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

THREE MORE FIVES AMONG THE LEADERS

Clinton Team and Two Locals Finish Well Up in Column—Other Events Fall to Feature.

Yesterday's bowling failed to dislodge the leaders in any events in the local tournament, although three teams finished high in the team play. The Clinton five went into fourth place with a total of 2,345 pins. Dave Cunningham's five, with a total of 2,339, missed matters somewhat and have slipped in the sixth berth, and Arthur Hughes's five with 2,330 dropped into eighth position among the leaders.

A. Pees and Cornell of Clinton occupy fourth place in the doubles by reason of their 1,075 score. Other bowling was far mediocre. The scores:

FIVE VARSITY MEN ARRAYED AGAINST CARDS THIS WEEK

All Star Greys Composed of Five Wisconsin and Little Five Men—Promises to be Best of Season.

If the Lakota club Cardinals can defeat the team to be arrayed against them tomorrow night, it will be safe to assume that the Cards can clean up anything else in the state. Manager Caldwell this morning announced the lineup of the All-Star Greys, a star assemblage from end to end.

He has secured Harold Olson and Paulie Meyers to fill out with Hemming and Edler and Eddie Atwood. Olson, 1917 all-conference guard, the selection of every basketball writer who has seen him in action this season, and who has followed his playing with Wisconsin for the past three years, will be opposite Edler, the forward across from Eddie Atwood, while Hemming will be in again at the pivot place.

The same Cardinal line-up which defeated the Greys a week ago will meet them again tomorrow night. Although they fought like tigers and in the last few minutes of play overcame a big lead and won by a single point, the week's victory is to be theirs.

There is a lot of truth in the belief that the Cardinals will have to play their most polished game of the season to win. And there is really a great deal of doubt if they can really win against the team.

Backers of the Cards argue that Meyers will not be able to get five baskets as Cunningham did last week. Others seem to think he will. It is also believed that Edler will tear loose and attempt to demonstrate that he was only kidding Richards along a week ago and on Saturday night will enter the pivot place.

more in the scoring than in the first game. But to close critics of basketball it was evident that Edler had his hands full with the young golden last week. Richards stuck just like that species of fish, or something, called a leech. He will do it again tomorrow night.

Jack Mitchell will play the other forward from Richards. Floden and Hemming will battle it out at center and Mike Knapp and Einfeld will hold down the guards. It looks like a battle royal.

John J. McGraw's declaration that Dave Robertson, Giant outfielder, is as great a ball player as Ty Cobb, if the Giant star cares to be, was almost the cause for breaking out American flags and holding a public mass meeting to send thanks by the citizens of Elizabeth City, North Carolina.

Dave used to play on the town team in Elizabeth City and they have known for some time down there that Georgia has nothing on South Carolina in the matter of sending great ballplayers to the major leagues.

Dave has been gallivanting around the National league for some time. He ups and cracks the ball on the nose, beats out a few infield hits a year, steals a base or two, turns in a few fielding sensations each year and calls it a whole twelve months crammed into three or four or whatever the case may be.

Dave is temperamental. He is a southerner with the southerner's contempt for the northerner's brusqueness. He is a great ball player and he knows it fairly well. But Dave wants to be great in his own way. If he doesn't feel like stretching his legs in a sprint to first base, why it's nobody's business, so he does as he pleases.

McGraw has been grilling Robertson for a long time, using his own successful way in making a great man of his potential great. This year, according to McGraw, Robertson is going to step out as the only real rival of the famous Georgia Peach in all around ball playing. Dave has added a few promises of his own and it may be that he will forget temperament and try to make them stick.

Last year Dave busted into the first days of the season with a few well timed crashes that placed him at the head of the batting list with no trouble at all. He played like a fiend, or a Cobb, and he made such a future star that everyone, McGraw included, said that McGraw was premature praise, for Dave struck a slump, forgot his good resolutions and ended the season with a batting average of .307, barely within the hall of fame.

Now a 300 mark isn't to be sneezed at at any time but Dave is capable of more and McGraw is determined he shall show it this year.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—From Cagliari, the most important port in Sardinia, came the first information that the German submarine raider, the U-5, had been captured by an Austrian submarine. The law, by which the island has been won, be that the island will become a free port, regarding maritime warfare of this nature in the Mediterranean, but it is certain that Sardinia's emergence from obscurity is now so great, though it may serve the purpose of recalling some of the past importance of the region which, incidentally at least, has been the home of the mercenaries who served Hannibal II and who are thought to have settled upon the island when their demand for a home was no longer in demand. A war geography bulletin which describes this port and tells something of its history has been published by the International Geographic Society held at London.

The Phoenician, those Yankees of antiquity, were there, of course, and their remains are still discernible. Rome, though hampered by the Carthaginian plots, held the island for the third century B. C., to the conclusion of the Byzantine period; and then, after abortive Saracen attempts to take the island, its possession oscillated from one to another of the Italian republics. The chief contestants being Pisa and Genoa, finally passing definitely to the Pisans through the interposition of the then Pope. Genoa succeeded to Pisa, and the Sardinian and Spanish control continued in vigor until the end of the war of the Spanish succession, after which came fluctuating suzerainty, which ended in the final cession of Sardinia to the Duke of Savoy in exchange for Sicily. The new rulers taking on at the same time a royal title, thus initiating the rule which now occupies the island of Italy.

Like its nearest neighbor, Corsica, from which it is separated by only seven and a half miles of deep channel, Sardinia is mountainous and picturesque, with the ruggedness of the Alps which formerly accompanied the landscape. The vine, the olive and some grains, however, are cultivated, and, considering the primitive methods employed, the returns are not small. For two or three days are now made of the island.

Under the Roman Empire the island was looked upon as a national granary, his friends to go to Sardinia instead of to Africa to study the race whom he asserted he had brought to modern scientific and political rule. The speech of the Sardinians, divided north and south in both of which a large number of Latin words remain unchanged from the days of classic communication. It is with difficulty that the two sections of the island can speak with each other. Consequently, Italian, the official language is largely employed. Outside of the capital, the most of the old costume remains daily use and the old-time customs are also observed. The Sardinian peasant is amiable, hospitable and dignified in manner, but the mode of life and there is little of enterprise in his character; though poor, there are few beggars among them—while, perhaps, be explained by the fact that the island is not greatly frequented by foreigners. The brigands, who held sway in nearby Corsica to so late a date, long since disappeared from Sardinia, and the brigandage diminished to the verge of the island to have taken a reciprocal progression.

Calgari, the source of the new first referred to, is the capital of the southern of the two provinces of the island. It is the largest Sardinian town, with a population of nearly 40,000. It is the seat of an archbishop and of a small university.

$250,000 WORTH OF OLD MASTER
STOLEN IN SPAIN, SOUGHT HER

New York, March 26.—Paintings of old masters, valued at more than $250,000, stolen from the Alhambra at Seville, Spain, when that place was last January 10, are believed to have been smuggled into the United States and hidden.

Baron de Quinto, aided by the police of Madrid, has started a nation-wide search for the paintings today. Among the stolen works of art are Van Dyck's "Portrait of the Duke of Richmond," Titian's "Venus," and a "Madonna and Child," by Raphael, and an "Ecce Homo," by Velasquez. The Spanish ambassador in Washington is asking the United States for a federal aid if the local search fails.

Sausage.
Sausage is a round, fat, unseasoned article of indigestion. It is the fat of all wursts, but never and wienie. Its grandfather is hologna. And its grandmother is more hologna. Sausage is of two kinds, tinned and untinned. Tinned sausage wears a thin spring over the top; round and square as a necktie. Untinned sausage is sold by the pound and served in soultizes.

To avoid infection keep all playthings out of the baby's mouth. Flies carry disease to babies. Keep the baby's room screened. Keep flies away from the baby's food and from the baby at all times. Cover the crib or carriage with a netting to keep out the flies and mosquitoes. This concludes the series.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 23.—The first territorial capitol of Wisconsin at Belmont, now Leslie, may be preserved as one of the historical landmarks of the state. A bill to accomplish this purpose has been presented by Senator Platt Whitman of Highland, and was given a hearing before the joint finance committee of the legislature Wednesday afternoon. The bill calls for an appropriation of $7,500 to purchase a sufficient land and to move the old capitol building to the place where it was located when the first territorial session of the legislature was held.

The first session of the Wisconsin legislature of the territory of Wisconsin convened at Menomonie, October 25, 1835, and adjourned on December 9 of the same year. The session lasted forty-six days, and there were forty-two laws passed and placed upon the statute books.

Senator Whitman, M. C. Bindauld of Platteville appeared in favor of the measure.

"During this first session, several counties were organized," declared Bindauld in discussing the history of the first territorial capitol before the joint finance committee yesterday afternoon. "Among these yesterday were Portage, Adams and Grant. The counties were being formed by dividing Iowa county. It was at this session that a law was passed providing for trustees for the village of Milwaukee and naming the village of Adams. Among the trustees was one establishing the University of Belmont, in Iowa county. The building in which the first session was held was two stories high, and about the size of the place until some fifteen years ago, when it was removed across the public highway, where it now stands in fairly good condition.

"It is now proposed to ask the legislature to allow the building back to its original site; repair it as nearly as possible to its original shape; purchase a sufficient quantity of land to constitute a respectable park; and to improve the park by a careful and proper lodge and have an annual sum for the caring of the grounds together with such other improvements as will make the place of the most interesting in the state. The building being restored, would be

Oshkosh, Wis., March 23.—In his cell at Waupun hospital for the criminally insane here today, John Shrank, the man who shot and tried to kill Theodore Roosevelt as he was making a campaign speech in Milwaukee in 1912, declared that he has "forgiven" "T. R." and even feels kindly toward him. Shrank has no relatives and no friends. He is destined to remain here while he lives. He is a house painter by trade. He imagines he is a great philosopher and that he will die famous.

New York, March 22.—Senor Don Jesus Alvarado, whose ancestors for 400 years have been collectors of objects illustrative of the ancient arts of the natives of Ecuador, offered the famous collection at auction at the Anderson galleries here today.

Some of the objects are practically priceless. The collection attracted much attention at the Panama-Pacific exposition. Perhaps most interesting in the group is the coat of mail of Lorenzo de Aldana, the famous Spanish soldier, given to Senor Alvarado's ancestor, Don Pedro, who started the collection in 1532. This armor alone is valued at thousands of dollars.

The visitors have been students at the High School at Fort Arthur and speak Japanese fluently. Hsien-kuei is twenty-two years old. He commanded a detachment under General Butchaf in Mongolia last year. Relating his experience in Mongolia, he said that he permitted him to go to his father, but he secretly escaped to join the army of General Butchaf who welcomed him cordially and made him a commander of his mounted men. The prince fought against the Japanese but on account of the inferior arms the Mongolian soldiers did not succeed, although they fought most valiantly. He stated that General Butchaf is still alive and planning to take another opportunity against the Chinese.

Prince Hsien-kuei said that he and his friends came to Japan to be educated at the "Seinauri" and received necessary training under the guidance of the famous General Fukuda.

Detroit, Mich., March 23.—The Human Soul Development corporation of Detroit was dissolved today. Its only asset—a little girl—is admitted to Toronto's underworld and the corporation is a failure.

The company was organized a year ago to redeem the soul of pretty 11-year old Christine Nielson. The force of circumstances had compelled it to do so.

A newspaper story telling how the girl, a waif, was held by federal authorities, caused four well known Detroit business men, Joseph F. Mason, James S. Holm, H. A. Douglas and William McCredie, to meet with Federal Judge Tuttle and form the Human Soul Development corporation of Canada. They were to educate the girl in Canada and start her on the right path in life.

Christine fought a losing fight for months. Then she disappeared. A postal card to the Human Soul Development corporation from her adviser, she had obtained employment in Toronto and needed no more help. A representative of the corporation found Christine in Toronto's underworld, miserable and despondent. She refused to return. So the Human Soul Development corporation closed its books.

Tokio, March 23.—The Rev. C. MacGaughey, of Boston, has been elected president of the American Peace Society of Japan.

The annual meeting of the organization adopted resolutions voicing its satisfaction with the work of the Rev. Sidney L. Gulick as secretary of the commission for peace and arbitration under the auspices of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

"Though members of a peace society, we, as individuals, can do nothing less than give our whole-souled support to any measures our government may feel compelled to order the circumstances, to take."

Cookeville, March 22.—Miss Beulah Cole is visiting friends at Evansville, Mo.

Mrs. William Porter entertained the community club Thursday afternoon at the home of the Lutheran church. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Louis Erickson Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Zinn have moved to the Walter Miller farm and will raise tobacco.

Joe Porter, Jr., spent a few days at the first of the week visiting friends at Racine.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson has been ill with slight attack of bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Wormer, who have been ill with la grippe, are reported on the gain.

Mr. and Mrs. George Woodworth of Beloit spent Tuesday with the latter's nephews, Owen and Michael Boyle.

A great many from here attended the funeral of Cassius M. Evans at the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon. The deceased was well and favorably known here.

The Janesville Daily Gazette, March 23, 1877.—Gentle Spring received a child quite like the little Bug Kite. The petitions which are in circulation favoring the establishment of a public library, are being signed by many of our prominent business men, and among the signers is our enterprising fellow citizen, Peter Myers.

A slight accident occurred in the United States cotton factory last night, occasioned by the attempt to light the gas with a kerosene lamp. We understand that the explosion did not hurt the men, but the civility on the part of the employees soon extinguished the flames.

Of late several of our citizens have sent money to Chicago in letters, but on account of losses, the letters never reaching the parties for whom they were intended. The letters of all the troops sent to fight at Fort Sumter, and a young man named Gross, employed in the postoffice in Chicago, has been arrested for stealing letters with money in them. He has confessed to the stealing of about $1000 worth of letters, and the same raciality practiced in the Chicago office has caused the Janesville office much annoyance, as many valuable letters sent from Janesville to Chicago. It will probably stop now.

SEVEN FIGHTING NATIONS IN THIS ENGLISH CLASS

Altoona, Pa., March 23.—Seven of the warring European nations are represented among the seventy-two adult pupils in the English class of the public school taught by Miss Lena E. Kephart. Miss Kephart says they are too much interested in the progress of the war to quarrel on account of native differences. The foreigners include Germans, Austrians, Russians, Italians, Poles, Greeks and Irish.

are the positive and final orders issued to every pair of shoes in the store. They've got to go! The end is near. This is a straight above board proposition that should appeal to all men and women who value their money.

SATURDAY WILL BE THE BANNER DAY

Of the big sale—great preparations have been made. Cut-slash ridiculously low prices will crowd the store with an army of shoe buyers. Come early and avoid the big rush. The afternoon and evening crowds will be tremendous and we shall be compelled to lock the doors as we had to last Friday and Saturday. Our entire reserve stock goes on sale tomorrow—nothing held back. Empty shelves and bare racks is what we want at the end of this sale. We are not looking for profits. We'll be satisfied to get net cost or less because we are quitting business.
